LATEST NEWS: First National Title Insurance Company Adds Chance Perkins as Underwriting Counsel

PLANO, TEXAS - First National Title Insurance Company (FNTI) is adding to its underwriting team with the addition of William “Chance” Perkins.

The tremendous growth of FNTI since its inception in 2012 has created a need for additional underwriting counsel to service the needs of its increasing agent base. Chance Perkins brings experience from both the agency and underwriting sectors of the title industry. He has experience as an examining attorney with two title companies in Texas and most recently worked as Texas underwriting counsel for a title underwriter.

Chance will be a welcome addition to the FNTI underwriting staff to offer his expertise on residential and commercial transactions. He will also be a major force in the education of FNTI title agents as well as their clients in the real estate industry. He is certified to teach continuing education courses for both the Texas Department of Insurance and the Texas Real Estate Commission. Chance has previously implemented education programs and intends to continue this work at First National Title to create successful agency relationships.

“I am excited about the experience and enthusiasm Chance brings to our underwriting team,” said FNTI President Chris Phillips. “One of FNTI’s strengths is the underwriting support and service we deliver to our agents. As we grow, we are committed to maintaining the highest levels of customer service. With the addition of Chance, we intend to exceed your expectations and demonstrate our commitment to you, our independent agent.”
